NES AI FINANCE & INSURANCE INTELLIGENCE PLATFORM

Future Compliance Review Checklist

Document ID: NES-COMP-020 | Version: 1.0

Build approach: Cline-assisted development • Local-first Windows application

Scope: Personal research, paper trading and insurance document assistance

Planning gate before any customer-facing regulated service

1. Purpose

This is a future planning checklist, not legal advice or a determination that any activity is permitted. Obtain qualified India-specific regulatory advice before offering regulated services to customers.

2. Trigger for review

- Providing investment advice or personalised recommendations to customers.
- Managing customer portfolios or executing trades on their behalf.
- Brokerage, order routing or customer trading access.
- Distributing, recommending, selling or purchasing insurance for customers.
- Collecting customer financial, identity or policy documents.
- Charging for financial/insurance services or making performance claims.

3. Review topics

- Applicable SEBI registrations/rules for the exact proposed activity.
- Broker/exchange permissions, API terms and market-data licensing.

- Applicable IRDAI requirements and insurance intermediary/distribution rules.
- Privacy, consent, data retention, security and breach handling.
- Customer disclosures, complaint handling, records and audit requirements.
- Marketing claims, performance presentation and suitability processes.
- Tax/accounting obligations and contractual responsibilities.

4. Separation from initial prototype

- Keep the first release personal-use only.
- Do not activate customer accounts, customer portfolios or customer order execution.
- Do not represent AI outputs as guaranteed returns or claim approval.
- Document the intended future business model before building customer-facing features.

5. Approval gate

Do not launch customer-facing regulated financial or insurance capabilities until the exact business activity, licences, provider contracts, disclosures and operating controls have been reviewed by qualified professionals.